Ian,

Just received this after we spoke....

A TfL spokesperson said: "We are working with Hammersmith and Fulham Council to identify a final plan for upgrading their bridge. We are also ready to support them in identifying the necessary funding for this work. Keeping local authority infrastructure in good condition is essential to ensure the wider road network stays safe and productive and helps the economy grow. We need the certainty of a long-term steady and sustained funding arrangement to allow London to cover the costs of its own infrastructure maintenance."

Seems okay to me? Not sure if it is finalised yet, but probably just about. I've dropped a line to comms about the concerns you raised.

Regards,

Garry
