[REDACTED] – as promised I attach a screenshot showing some dims, to overcome some concerns raised by residents I have dropped the buffer zone width by 0.3m to provide a bit of extra room for getting in and out of cars. This extra 300mm also gives some safety margin to the car bays as vehicles will be following the line of the bus border. Dimensions are on the plan. I attach surveys for HCR which shows cycle counts but numbers are lower than I would have expected. I am not certain how accurate tube counts are at picking up cycle flows so I am not certain I completely trust these figures.

Kind Regards
