

QUERY: Hello To whom it may concern I am writing this email because my car has just been flashed at a speed camera on the A406 chiswick roundabout the camera was outside The International School of London There was no notice of the speed limit change or the speed limit change from 40mph to 30mph as I was coming from work though the kew gardens area which then leads onto the A406 Then today i drove home from work through the Brentford area which had 30mph signs notifying people of the speed change which leads to the same road as the kew gardens way the A406 and its also very misleading to have the 40mph sign still rite behind the camera giving the impression its still 40mph So what can i do to ensure i dont get a fine and points as this clearly isnt my fault there was no signs showing 30mph coming from kew gardens only signs coming from Brentford ive been driving them two routes home from work for five years now and never had any problems your advice would be much appreciated Yours faithfully ALLOCATION: passing to Streets RR

PREFERRED MEANS OF CONTACT: EMAIL I have just returned home from the Ealing Broadway station. On A4 where there is a left turn towards A406 right before the Chiswick roundabout. I have noticed that the speed has been changed from 40 to 30 where there is one tiny sign board just before the camera which seems a bit unfair. This seems like an easy way to give drivers a ticket although and make money even if they are driving at what they supposedly think is the speed limit. I think that more clear signboards should be placed on both sides so drivers are aware, I know if I were to get a ticket for driving under 40 I would definitely be very irritated and would appeal as legally there are no clear sign boards to make me aware of the speed limit. There are signs when you come from Chiswick roundabout, but not from the B and Q side. Placing a speed sign board 2 meters before a camera is like a trap and will cause sudden breaks to be put on. Regards

The southbound a406 speed camera just after b and q has unclear signage. As you approach the white lines on the road of the camera a 40 mph limit sign is right in front of you. Just before the yellow camera itself is a 30 limit sign which must be new. It has always been 40 and if you're changing it to 30 be very clear about it. Secondly the camera is faulty, and flashes at you even if you are going 30mph and under. It is interfering with traffic flow as people slow to a crawl because of this camera. It needs fixing asap Thanks for your help Location: Great West Road (Brentford) Eastings/Northings: X: 519194.35639151 Y: 178552.44748387 More details: Southbound a406 speed camera just after b and q Customer called
